

CREATOR OR ALIENS

Psalm 108:3-4 – “When I consider Your heavens, the work of Your fingers, the moon and the stars, which You have ordained, what is man that You are mindful of him?”

On August 8, 2016 astrophysicists from Harvard and Oxford concluded the reason we have not discovered intelligent life on other planets is because we are not asking the right question – not where but when. After studying stars they concluded that the reason we can’t find intelligent beings is because they haven’t been born yet. It is possible that intelligent aliens on other planets will not be born for billions of years from now. By that time our sun will have burnt earth to a crisp, and humans will have found other places than earth to live. Humans are bizarre exceptions born billions of years ahead of time. The prime time for alien intelligences is billions of years from now, when the universe is 10 to 1,000 times its current age.

More and more cosmologists believe that human life was “created” by aliens. This seems to fit their theory of how life got here. They evidently have concluded there are no intelligent aliens, so they are walking back their theory by explaining humans are an aberration, but that’s OK. In the length of time they say it took earthlings to evolve, we will find intelligences in the future. We just have to wait several billion years. This is insane at first take. Think about the ramifications of such thinking. This leaves this brain trust of cosmologists with staggering questions: (1) How will intelligent life arrive on other planets? (2) Unless God creates these aliens, how are they going to get here? I can only assume these astrophysicists theorize these future aliens will evolve in somewhat the same way as humans supposedly evolved, and they will possess the power to “create” another humanity. Honestly, is it really more likely that alien intelligence can be proven billions of years ahead of time when it is too much to believe in a Creator from eternity past? It doesn’t make sense to me, but they are entitled to their argument. Their argument is the product of a reprobate mind.
